

SPIRITUAL IDENTITY IN THE MODERN AGE

You are being asked to participate in a research study. Before you decide, it is important that you read the following information and ask as many questions as you want so that you are clear what will be asked of you.

What is the research about?

The proposed research is about how people see and express their spiritual identity through the stories they tell (and are told) about their lives and their faith. We are interested in what spirituality means to you and how you came to the place that you are now in.

Who is conducting the research?

Dr. Clive Baldwin is leading the research. He is Canada Research Chair in Narrative Studies at St Thomas University (STU). Lauren Ripley is Research Assistant on the project. The research has been approved by the Research Ethics Board of STU.

Why have I been invited to participate?

You have been invited to participate because you are a member of a spiritual, religious or faith-based group, or express and practice a more individual form of spirituality.

If I am interested in participating, what should I do?

If you are interested in participating, please contact me, indicating your interest and asking any questions you might have. You can do this by phone, e-mail, or regular mail:

What does participating in the research involve?

In agreeing to participate in the research you are agreeing to take part in two interviews, each of approximately 1 ½ - 2 hours in length. The first interview will focus on how you came to your spirituality – your spiritual journey – and what it means to you. You will be able to tell your story in as much detail as you want. The second interview will focus on clarifying and expanding on things from the first interview and exploring particular aspects of your experience, the group of which you are a part, and how others see you and that group.

Ideally, we would like to interview you in person and interviews would be arranged at a time and place convenient to you and are quite informal. Any out of pocket expenses (e.g. travel costs) will be reimbursed.

If a face-to-face interview is not possible due to geographical location and/or costs we may ask to interview you by Skype or telephone. You will be asked for your permission for the interviews to be recorded. If you would like to see the transcripts of your interviews prior to giving permission for their use, we will send these to you.

We will also ask you for a small amount of personal information (for example, age, gender, education) that will help in the research – all of which will be kept completely separate from the interview material.

What will happen to the information I provide?

Interviews will be typed word for word (transcribed) and all information that could identify you (e.g. names, places, dates etc.) will be removed. The information will then be analysed and used in reports, journal articles, conference presentations and educational materials. All information will be edited so as to ensure that you cannot be identified (with the exception of audio and/or video recordings – see below).

All information will be stored in locked filing cabinets and/or password protected computer files. All material will be destroyed after seven years following completion of the research.

Will the information I give be confidential?

Yes. Only those directly involved in the research will have access to the information you give us. Transcribers will be required to sign confidentiality agreements. All information will be treated in confidence, unless you told us about another person being harmed or at risk of being harmed or about an unresolved or future crime.

All identifying information will be removed from the information you give us. If you so wish, we can send you a copy of the transcript for correction and approval before it is included in the research.

In addition to being asked to agree to being interviewed you will be asked also whether you agree to any audio and/or video recordings being used in conference presentations, for educational purposes, in academic publications or in interim and final reports on the website.

This consent is entirely separate from agreeing to participate in the research and you can still participate in the research even if you do not want the audio/video recordings to be used in this way. If you agree to these uses of the audio/video recordings we cannot guarantee that you will not be identified from the recording so please think very carefully about this. Once again, you do not have to agree to this– we can work with the typed transcripts alone.

What are the benefits of participating in the research?

While some people find it helpful to talk about their experiences, there will not necessarily be any direct benefits to you individually as a result of participating in the research. The purpose of the research is to help understand how people form their spiritual identities.

What are the risks of participating in the research?

The risks of participating in the research are minimal. It is possible that some people might become upset when recounting particularly difficult experiences. If this happens the interviewer will stop the interview until you are ready to continue or decide not to continue. You will be offered the opportunity to discuss this with the interviewer and the interviewer will help you access other resources if you would like.

Can I change my mind? And what will happen if I do?

You are free to withdraw at any stage without having to give a reason. If you decide to withdraw then all information you have supplied and can be attributed to you will be destroyed.

Will I be able to see the outcomes of the research?

Yes, you can ask to be put on the list to be sent a summary when it is available. When the research is completed a report will be available on the website.

As the project is quite a lengthy one, annual updates will appear on the website. If you do not have access to the Internet and want to receive these updates, please let us know.

Who do I contact if I have a question or want further information?

Please feel free to contact me by letter, phone or email.
